

Problem of the Week

Problem E

Stay on Track

At noon, two trains are 1000 km apart. The first train is north of the second train and is traveling south. The second train is traveling east. Both trains travel at the same average speed, 100 km/h.

At what time is the total distance travelled by the two trains equal to the distance between the trains?

